

View this email in your browser

The Power of Community...

Tis the season! For many, this time of year reminds us the importance of showing up for those around us and showing up for our community.

You will soon receive a story about Denise, a single mom of four who has found a community at FAWN, a Turning Points food pantry, at Tilden Middle School in Southwest Philadelphia.

For Denise, a normal Friday means walking seven blocks to do laundry and get extra food from FAWN to help feed her four teenage sons. At the food pantry, the volunteers and staff ask about her growing sons, and they know what food they like. Their friendly faces and kind words remind Denise she is not alone.

This is the type of place FAWN is. The volunteers, staff, and neighbors who use the pantry truly care for one another.

Picture a community where the hungry, homeless, and disconnected find hope. That is our community. You too can be a part of it by donating today.

Donate Today

Be sure to keep your eye out for Denise's story coming in the mail. It's a story of how good neighbors look out for each other. Thank you for being a good neighbor.

Follow us on social media!

Copyright (C) 2024 Turning Points for Children. All rights reserved.

Our mailing address is:

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe