Dear Friend,

We are pleased to inform you that the PHMC leadership team and the Turning Points for Children Board has appointed David Fair to serve as Executive Director of Turning Points for Children and Cydney Dasent to serve as Deputy Director of Turning Points for Children. Their new roles will take effect on January 15, 2024.

David has helped lead the Turning Points team since 2013 when he joined as Deputy Chief Executive Officer. In this role, David provided oversight to the case management services for more than 2,500 families and more than 4,000 children. In addition, he founded and managed the region's largest foster care agency and numerous child abuse prevention programs. David brings more than 40 years of expertise in strategy, corporate and foundation relations, executive management, and nonprofit leadership. He has established and led several government entities in Philadelphia. David has held the position of Assistant Managing Director, City of Philadelphia, and served as Senior Vice President of United Way of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

Cydney joined Turning Points in 2018. She most recently served as the agency's Operations Director where she supported and led Turning Points Community Umbrella Agencies. In addition, she has been responsible for oversight and operations of The Bridge. Cydney has more than 20 years of experience in social services, including serving in key leadership positions with Operation Warm and Presbyterian Children's Village. Cydney is a Philadelphia native with masters' degrees from Temple University and St. Joseph's University.

PHMC is excited to support Turning Points as it recenters its work on its original vision to help children and families in our region thrive.

We are confident that Turning Points for Children will thrive under the continued direction and leadership of David and Cydney. Their demonstrated commitment to the agency's mission of serving the children, families and communities across Philadelphia and the region will serve as an example to our entire Turning Points family. Please join us in congratulating both David and Cydney on their new roles.

Warm Regards,

Eartha Holland
