There is still time to support dreams!

At Turning Points, love is always brewing like a warm cup of tea on a winter day.

Love is brewing in the hearts of our resilient families.

And for our committed staff members.

Love is brewing in your hearts too, our dedicated supporters, who give children and families the hope for brighter futures.

This month, we told you about the story of Basir, a bright teenager who was living at a group home and struggling to have hope in his future. Above all, he dreamt of having a family and a place to call home. His high school history teacher Mr. Jeff Wynne, his wife Charity, and their adopted child Emma made that dream come true when they opened their home to the teenager.

Basir is currently finishing up his first semester of college. On move-in day, his family was there to get him settled. He drives back regularly to visit the Wynne's and his sister Emma and spent the holidays with them together as a family. Most importantly, Basir has a family he can call his own.

For the Wynnes, their lives too had been forever transformed by their son, “We couldn’t prepare for the blessing he would be to us.”

The Wynnes helped give Basir hope for a brighter future.

You can help us keep the love brewing this year by making more dreams come true.
