STRONGER FAMILIES, BRIGHTER FUTURES

It's National Volunteer Week!

National Volunteer Week is April 19-25, a time to celebrate the people and companies who give their time, energy, and heart to support the families we serve. Volunteers are essential to our work, and this month we are proud to honor the Conshohocken office of Morgan Stanley, a corporate partner whose commitment has made an impact for decades.

Giving back is one of Morgan Stanley's core values, not just in dollars but in time. Over the years, we have seen this value in practice. Our relationship with the Conshohocken office and team began in 2006 with Kim Heavner, a Regional Vice President who retired a few years ago, but the relationship remains strong, and twenty years long!

The local Morgan Stanley team has shown up each and every year to help our families. They have donated over $12,000 in goods including gifts to Brighter Holidays and essential items for our FAWN food pantries (basic necessities not covered by government funding, such as diapers, cleaning supplies, and toiletries).

And, that's just the beginning. Morgan Stanley has donated over $150,000 in monetary gifts throughout our long-standing relationship.

Morgan Stanley's commitment has helped strengthen our food pantries and provided a safety net for our families, ensuring they have resources when they need them most. Their partnership is a powerful example of what long-term corporate engagement can look like: consistent, generous, and rooted in service.

To the Morgan Stanley Conshohocken volunteers who have given their time over the years, Thank You! Your dedication has helped hundreds of families under our care and demonstrates how corporate volunteers can be vital partners in the work we do.
