STRONGER FAMILIES, BRIGHTER FUTURES

Foster Care Stories Are Still Being Written

In recognition of National Foster Care Awareness Month, we are shining a light on two programs, LifeSet and Family Finding, that support young people in foster care as they work toward brighter, more stable futures.

Every young person in foster care has a story still being written. No matter how that story began, our goal is to ensure the next chapter is defined by hope, strength, resilience, and a true sense of belonging. We do this by providing the tools, relationships, and support that young people need to reimagine what is possible for their lives.

Our work is rooted in a simple but powerful belief. When young people are given essential resources and consistent support, it can change the course of their lives.

LifeSet focuses on older youth as they transition out of foster care and into adulthood, a particularly vulnerable period when many face serious risks related to housing instability, unemployment, and isolation. Through one-on-one coaching, our staff known as “Specialists” help young people build practical skills, meaningful connections, and the confidence needed to navigate adult life. Whether preparing for a job interview, learning to manage finances, or securing stable housing, we meet young people where they are and walk alongside them towards a brighter future.

The outcomes speak for themselves. Upon program completion, our LifeSet participants achieve:

- 100% reduction in arrests
- 97% employment stability
- 89% housing stability

Our Family Finding program works to identify and engage relatives, community members, and other caring adults who can offer young people a sense of permanency and lifelong support. Through this work, siblings are able to stay connected, young people reconnect with their culture and identity, and youth feel more confident and grounded as they make decisions about what comes next in their lives. Support and belonging are often taken for granted, but for youth in foster care, a community of connections can change the trajectory of their lives. To date, our Family Finding staff have made more than 24,000 permanent connections for youth in foster care.

Their stories are still being written, and your generosity helps turn a chapter of uncertainty into a chapter of opportunity. Please consider donating today and continue changing lives!
