Food and Wellness Network: FAWN

WHO IS FAWN?

Our Mission

The Food and Wellness Network (FAWN) is dedicated to supporting families to raise healthy children through emergency food assistance and nutrition education

About Us

FAWN was established in 2013 and provides 300 bags of food a week to 1,000 families per month. FAWN places high value on the acceptance of all its clients, turning no one away. We are currently operating with a Pop-Up model three days a week at locations in Frankford and West Philadelphia. FAWN also teaches about nutrition, healthy eating habits, and exercise, shares recipes, connects clients to resources and benefits, and provides health screenings to vulnerable populations. Keep an eye out for announcements of events!

"Envision a food pantry that is designed to be less of a transaction and more of a transformation of lives and attitudes"

~ Katie S. Martin
